Summary

Looking for an opportunity to learn

Tech is one of my hobbies and enjoyment in life. I adore it. For the past two years, I have been trying to understand and learn how to use technology to my benefit and for others. I know how to program proficiently in python and have basic knowledge of Java. Windows and Linux operating systems are very well. I already have five certifications with Google For IT Python Automation. I have tinkered with a Chromebook and was able to convert it into a Linux operating system without extensive hardware tools. I've been taking apart old laptops and seeing how I can use them or how they look.

Mostly my skills are set for customer service and with people. I work well with others, even in stressful situations. At IKEA, I had to work in two departments due to short staffing issues. The main job in IKEA is to help the customer resolve their problems if the problems are way more significant than I'm authorized to do. I have resolutions take over the case. I have some warehouse experience from Amazon. I worked in a retirement home thinking I wanted to be a nurse when I did not. People tend to work based on validation for how good they worked. I don't tend to be that way. I'll look at the world where it needs to be more effective; I like to be a piece to make it more effective. Being lazy is not one of my virtues. I don't make excuses. I do better.
